A Reflection
by Istvan Horvath

Thirtieth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Greatest Commandment:
"You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul, [with all your strength,] and with all your mind. You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Mt 22:37-39; Lk 10:27; Mk 12:30-31

Again, we are presented with the main truth of our existence that we learned as the first principles of our faith: The Purpose of Man's Existence. That principal is to know, love and serve God. Catechism of the Catholic Church Prologue I:1

This is God's love in truth for the world: That His love, wisdom and creation be manifest in Man through his Son, Jesus Christ. This is the image of God that both the Old and New Testaments teach us. There is no other greater truth than this for the universe. It is this simple and it is this difficult in the same breath. Because it also means we must love all persons as Jesus loves us, and treat His creation and gifts as things that we don't own, but rather share.

Are we Christians truly followers of Jesus Christ? We follow weather patterns, we follow events, we follow people on electronic gadgets, but do we follow Our Lord with the same fervor? Have we replaced God in our lives with images, things, wants and ideas? Is our society using euphemisms of justice, security, empowerment and choice to replace God in the psyche of the human person?

Saint Paul alludes to this very understanding when he instructs the Colossians (Col 1:15-20) that our image of the world should be through Jesus Christ, the Son, because through the Son we are brought into the "fullness" of all creation that is God the Father and receive through Him the Ever-living Spirit. The Father and Son are one and have existed before all creation, but for our sake the Father sent the Son so that we may know Him beyond any doubt that we are of His image created.

It is also implied that through the Son, Jesus Christ, we are redeemed of our sins, and our souls taken up with His to where He has prepared for us a place with the Father. Jn 14:2-4

So, the Greatest Commandment is the universal truth, the AMEN, and a love for the one who gives us everlasting life.
